

FCLA Endeca Project

By Michele Newberry
IGeLU 2007 - Brno

State University System of Florida

SUS Environment

- 11 State Universities
- 20+ years using heavily-customized NOTIS with:
  - 11 separate bib/holdings/items files
  - Locally-developed webOPAC
  - Custom designed keyword searching
  - Union catalog via merged indexes with links to local cataloging records
- Migration to Aleph finished in 2006

SUS ALEPH Architecture

- 11 universities
- 11 Aleph instances
  - Bibliographic records = 14 million
  - Configuration files and tables
  - Joblists and batch queues
- 11 OPAC configurations
- 1 v.15.5 OPAC config = >700 files/tables
- 4 Aleph regions (DEV/TEST/PROD/REPT) X
11 OPACs X 700 files = 30,800!

Current OPAC environment

- Aleph 500 v.15.5
- Heavily customized to reflect pre-implementation objectives
  - Based on familiarity of previous system
  - Includes heavy use of Javascript
  - Without full understanding of all the support implications
- Some workarounds created functional problems

Pending upgrade

- Jumping 2 releases to v.18
- None of the v.15.5 customization will survive the upgrade process
- Resources to sustain customization aren't there
- Familiarity with previous system is declining
- Upgrade process will take 4 months for the 11 Aleph instances

Other objectives

- Provide a consistent transition interface during the upgrade process
- Gain discovery and navigation functionality not currently available
- Have more control over user interface
- Gain a union catalog – a byproduct of our previous system not yet available with the current one

Why ENDECA?

- Already proven by NCSU
- Could build on NCSU's work instead of starting from ground zero
- Product features:
  - Guided navigation
  - Facets
  - Spellcheck
  - Stemming
  - Others yet to be fully explored

Endeca architecture

- One instance of Endeca
- One Endeca database
- 7 million records
- One instance of user interface with individual institution views
- Easy interface modification
- Rapid, iterative development

Building the Endeca File

- Extract bib records from 11 Aleph databases
- Load 1st into a 12th Aleph bib file
- Load 2nd file-deduping on OCLC number merge unique and local data
(e.g., call numbers/URLS/headings/notes...)
- Repeat file<sup>3</sup> ... file<sup>11</sup>
- Load Digital Library metadata
- Extract merged bib file to load into Endeca

Aleph Bib Libraries

Extract and Merge Records

Maintaining the Endeca Catalog

- Full extraction, reformatting and load takes 48 hours – we're doing it twice a week
- Incremental updates of adds/significant changes – will be done more often
- Current holdings status retrieved from Aleph via SQL in real-time

Next steps ...

- OPAC Subcommittee is examining
  - Data integrity
  - Functionality
  - Appearance
  - Usability
  - Accessibility
- CIRC/ILL Subcommittee will be looking at future SUS-wide request capabilities

Next steps ...

- Technical Services Committee is looking at:
  - Aleph indexing changes for v.18 and effect on Endeca
  - Revision of material type codes for more user-friendly results
  - Processes to optimize the consistency of the bibliographic and holdings data feeding into Endeca

Much further down the road

- Libraries will need to start looking at workflow and cataloging decisions that:
  - Reduce duplication of effort
  - Share authority control
  - Redirect resources into enhancing the data
  - Reduce level of effort to produce the Endeca database

Whither PRIMO?

- Uncertainty of timetable when we started with Endecca
- Uncertainty of pricing for our large FTE and bib record count
- Uncertainty of viability for our union catalog objective

BUT

- Still being watched for its potential – we aren't married to Endecca, just dating
