Driving Change,
Creating Value
Together

1) How can we work together to create more value for our users?

2) How is technology changing the role of librarians?

3) What comes to mind when you hear the words “A global vision on the future of libraries”?

4) There is a classic tension between known and unknown item searching-
-if so, how do you see it?

5) Is there an expansion of stakeholders in your environment given broadening software and content platforms?

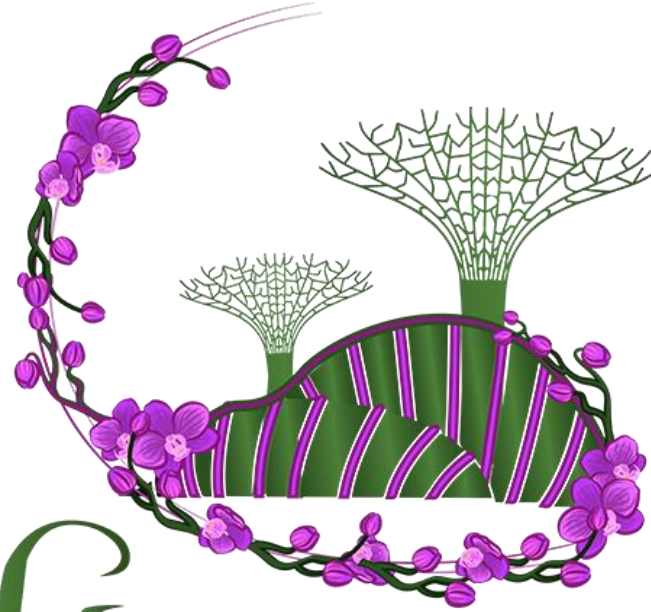

6) Does working together always create more value, and if not, where not?

7) We have seen significant advantages of working together in the open source community. What are your views on the same with commercial suppliers? Do you see delivery of long-term value there?

Thank you!!
