Day 3 - Opening the Swiss knife Homemade tools you can reuse in Alma
Question	Answer
First! Thank you very much for the advanced search on users in Alma. When creating a set based on the query and exporting it, would it be possible to have identification added? UnivID, PID. Something that makes it possible to easily re-use in Analytics. Hope this question is not placed in the wrong session. :-)	This question seems to have been written for another session. Anyway, when digging into the user's advanced search, there is no current way to include the PID into the list. I see two ways for that : 1) you can duplicate the PID into the note field and it will appear into the future export. This can be done by API. 2) Maybe Analytics is better than the Alma UI for getting that information, a simple filter should be enough to get the information and export it into an Excel file. Additionaly, you can create a new Idea Exchange to ask for the ID field to be included in the set results.
